International PhD and Postdoc Master Class: Deconstructing green

The European Society of Literature, Science and the Arts is committed to supporting young talents. 29 PhD students and younger postdocs from 15 different countries have been selected to participate in the interdisciplinary and international master class 'deconstructing green.' Participants will present their research projects and get feedback from SLSA's keynote speakers Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing (University of California Santa Cruz & Aarhus University), Brigitte Luis Guillermo Baptiste (Alexander von Humboldt Biological Resources Research Institute Bogotá), Natasha Myers (York University Toronto), Olaf L. Müller (Humboldt University Berlin), and, in addition, Gareth Doherty (Harvard University).

This workshop takes place on June 13 from 9-15h at UCPH's South Campus, and on June 17 from 12-17h at Medical Museion, facilitated by Jens Hauser (University of Copenhagen) and Jacob Wamberg (Aarhus University).

'Deconstructing green' is made possible through the generous support of the Carlsberg Foundation, the doctoral schools of the University of Copenhagen and Aarhus University, and further funding by the Faculty of Humanities, Faculty of Social Sciences, Medical Museion/Faculty of Health and Medical Sciences, and the Department of Plant and Environmental Sciences of the University of Copenhagen.

Modalities: Upon selection, 22 PhD and Postdoc fellows have been chosen to give a short and sharp presentation of 5-10 minutes (max, including computer change, bring your own VGA adapter) on their research project, followed by feedback from the keynotes and discussion with the group for 10-15 minutes. The additional seven selected candidates who will not give presentations are indeed not considered 'passive participants' but are expected to animate the debates in their own right. Two lunch sessions are intended to be moments of exchange. In addition, all selected candidates get full access to the SLSAeu conference programme from June 13 to 16, including evening events and cocktails, catering at lunch, food and drink tickets for the art event at the National Gallery of Denmark on June 15, and a catalogue.
